"The newspapers ought to be mirror of the world and the people living in that world and they should give a true picture of these things. "The press must very often be neutral in its relating of events, but at the same time the press must not only be the mirror, but also the searchlight to cast its light on the bad and wrong against which we as newspaper men and good citizens have to fight.

"It is a pleasure to me to say that I have found the majority of American papers good mirrors and good searchlights."

The diner was given at 5:30 in the evening and was opened with a prayer in Swedish uttered by Rev. Elof Carlson. The latter was instrumental in having Mr. Enderstedt come to Brainerd to present his lecture on "The Sweden of Today" and due to his untiring efforts and the assistance of eager co-workers that was also made a grand success.

The menu discussed was a generous one and the cuisine was of that kind which has made the Ideal famous in Brainerd and the Northwest.

In the course of the banquet Fred T. Lincoln, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, voiced his appreciation at the pleasure of meeting Mr. Pastor of Swedish Lutheran Church. Enderstedt. The Dispatch reprints this article from "The West Baden Journal," of West Baden, Indiana, of December 19, giving prominent mention of the visit there of one of Crow Wing county's well known citizens, John H. Hill, one of the founders of Ironton and fee owner of valuable mining properties on the Cuyuna iron range:

John H. Hill, Ironton, Minn., was among the old time and regular visitors registering at the springs hotel the past week and will spend a vacation, and also drink the mineral waters at this resort.

He begun his pilgrimage to West Baden Springs several years ago and has witnessed the steady growth of the place to its present gigantic proportions, and it affords him great pleasure to see and know that West Baden Springs now ranks among the leading American health and pleasure resorts, which is due to progressiveness along all lines, and also the unsurpassed medicinal properties of her

Mr. Hill is a gentleman of prominence and wide acquaintance in his home city, where he is interested in one of the leading iron ore mines in that section, and his venture in the ble investment. Ironton, for which he selected the name, and is also the founder, is a city six years of age, and at the present time contains a population of two housand. The city is populated by a people who are progressive and industrious, and Ironton, with its natural resources, and other conditions, s destined at no future day to take front rank among other leading Minnesota cities.

The land upon which Ironton is situated, as well as the country surrounding, is rich in iron ore deposits, and property valuation is set at a high figure as compared with the ity in its infancy.

The slogan, "Where the Mines Are," has been adopted by the citizens of Ironton, and there is no doubt of its being a fitting one and will bring about good results in the city's prosperity and growth.

Hamilton British consul in St. Paul, who has earned that registration of all male persons in Canada between the ages of sixteen and sixty-five has been ordered for the first week of 1917. The registration was decided on in anticipation of conscription, it is believed.

"I understand that Canada is now having trouble filling up its regiments and a conscription order would not be at all surprising," said Mr. Hamilton The order for the inventory would seem to indicate that the government anticipates such a move and wants to be prepared for it when it comes."

Upon entering the parlor the caller advanced gayly toward the hostess or a lady he knew, saying, "I wish you a Happy New Year," or he extended his wish to all the ladies by saying, "I wish you all a Happy New Year." The old or elderly gentlemen who were on intimate terms with the family or were relations were often permitted to saute the young ladies or all the ladies hey were safe in honoring. Some old centlemen, indeed, claimed it as a rite or ceremony descended from colonial rimes. The caller then seated himself and exchanged a few remarks. In a few moments the caller arose and said he must go. He was then asked to take some refreshment, which he generally did, more or less according to the circumstances of his being more or less devoted to the table, his intimacy with the family or the number of tables at which he had already partaken. THE ENGLISH PHEASANT.

Originally From Asia, It Is Still Found In China and Tibet.

Generally speaking, the English heasant is misnamed, since it came from Asia and is still to be found in India, Tibet and China. The birds were brought to Europe more than 500 years ago, turned loose on hunting preserves and thrived amazingly. They supply the finest bird shooting in Sco land and England, and so much care is taken in raising them that they may almost be regarded as a half domest

Under the present system the eggs are hatched by hens or in incubators. The chicks are carefully fed on in sects and prepared foods, and when they are able to shift for themselve they are turned into the woods. Whil the common pheasant will roost in trees, it is a ground bird. The female will remain under cover until it is almost stepped upon. Because of this trait the pheasants are aroused by men who beat in the thickets until the pheasants take flight over shooting boxes, where the hunters are concealed.—Philadelphia North American.

So sweet to me and good That if for better I should ask Twould seem ingratitude.

And so with things far off and strange Fried Spring Chicken Banker's Style Baked Blue Fish I do not care to cope, But look in Memory's face and learn What largess I may hope.

Another year of setting suns, Of stars by night revealed, Of springing grass, of tender buds By winter's snow concealed.

Another year of summer's glow Of autumn's gold and brown, Of waiting fields and ruddy fruits The branches weighing down.

Another year of happy work, Which better is than play; Of simple cares and love that grows More sweet from day to day.

And childhood's blessed ways; Of thinker's thought, and prophet's dream,

And poet's tender lays.

The Woman's New Year

HE recent years have brought to women a sane knowledge health conditions and of pure food requirements. They have brought the great prize of an awakened feminine conscience and a sense of responsibility which has resulted in better school conditions and in mothers' clubs and societies which have to do with the welfare of the young.

And, as it is fitting that all New Year's meditation shall have to do somewhat with resolutions, it would seem that the modern woman's outlook should include the determination to seek new paths of effectiveness her allegiance is to her husband, her children, her home, her friends, her work, to the world, year shall bring the broader viewpoint, the wider sympathy. the receptive mind, which shall make her respond to the needs of those whom she loves and shall make her a gracious and useful member of society.

For myself I am glad that hope and health and friends have come to me in my New Year's ships, but I go beyond this to be grateful for the wonderful treasures of idealism and opportunity which the New Year's ships are bringing to you and to me and to all the privileged and fortunate women of this wonderful land of ours .-Temple Bailey in Philadelphia

Upon entering the parlor the caller advanced gayly toward the hostess or a lady he knew, saying, "I wish you a Happy New Year," or he extended his wish to all the ladies by saying, "I wish you all a Happy New Year." The old or elderly gentlemen who were on ntimate terms with the family or were relations were often permitted to salute the young ladies or all the ladies they were safe in honoring. Some old gentlemen, indeed, claimed it as a rite or ceremony descended from colonial times. The caller then seated himself and exchanged a few remarks. In a few moments the caller arose and said he must go. He was then asked to take some refreshment, which he generally did, more or less accord ing to the circumstances of his being more or less devoted to the table, his intimacy with the family or the num ber of tables at which he had al ready partaken. THE ENGLISH PHEASANT.

Originally From Asia, It Is Still Found In China and Tibet.

Generally speaking, the English cheasant is misnamed, since it came from Asia and is still to be found in India, Tibet and China. The birds were brought to Europe more than 500 years ago, turned loose on hunting preserves and thrived amazingly. They supply the finest bird shooting in Scotland and England, and so much care is taken in raising them that they may almost be regarded as a half domesticated bird.

Under the present system the eggs are hatched by hens or in incubators. The chicks are carefully fed on insects and prepared foods, and when they are able to shift for themselves they are turned into the woods. While the common pheasant will roost in trees, it is a ground bird. The female will remain under cover until it is almost stepped upon.

Because of this trait the pheasants are aroused by men who beat in the thickets until the pheasants take flight feel sore all over. Relieve that cold over shooting boxes, where the huntat once with Dr. King's New Discov- ers are concealed .- Philadelphia North

THAT this shall be a better year Than any passed away I dare not at its open door To wish or hope or pray.

Not that the years already gone Were wearisome and lone, That so with hope too long deferred My heart has timid grown.

So sweet to me and good That if for better I should ask Twould seem ingratitude.

And so with things far off and strange I do not care to cope, But look in Memory's face and learn What largess I may hope.

Chronic Catarrh is Curable

Nothing is more distressing to the sufferer and hisfriends. Chronic catarrh is systemic—that is, it is present throughout the body, though it may manifest itself in a local ulceration.

Only a constitutional treatment will overcome systemic catarrh. Local treatments sometimes help the acute manifestations, but they cannot overcome the systemic disdorer.

PERUNA Has Helped Thousands

Peruna has special value in catarrh: It gives vitality to the system, restores tone to the membranes and enables these to perform their functions. In many cases its benefits begin at once, and it rarely fails when treatment is continued properly.

The Peruna Medical Department willbe glad to assist you to overcome this disease. The doctor's advice is free. Don't delay treatment.

the opera house between Henry Karhunsaari, the Finnish champion, and by leased wire to the Dispatch. Al. Francis, the middleweight champion of Canada, was a crackerjack won football letters at the agriculturmanner it did.

The trouble was really caused by the great rivalry between the two wrestlers and because of the entire lack of accommodations for pulling off a match of that kind, such as the absence of a roped ring and a regulation mat.

It is hoped that, should these two turn. men be brought together again in Brainerd, a stoutly roped ring and mat will be secured so that the wrestlers can settle their argument in the center of the mat and not on the brink of an orchestra pit.

They are a great pair and a return match would be a treat to the ing invisible communications, and fans here and a packed house would be the ultimate result. An effort is being made, at this time, to secure Francis' signature to a contract to appear here the night of Jan. 15th and the Fin has already agreed to return from Montana, where he expects to be at that time. Karhunsaari is very anxious to meet Francis again and if the St. Paul man wants any more of his game, he will be accommodated Jan. 15th.

It is reported that Francis was not as badly hurt as was first thought and will appear at the Star theatre of St. Paul next week, meeting all comers. He will, therefore, be in wonderful shape for a hard gruelling match with the Finn a week later, and a meeting between these two wrestlers to a finish would be worth going miles to see, and it is hoped that the promoters will be successful in putting the match through.
